

Ausschreibung 1st Immunis Sponsorship for Young Science

Szabo-Scandic and Next Generation Immunologists NGI support immunology research

Current developments clearly show how important immunological research and scientific networks are. With the first Immunis Sponsorship for Young Science, or Immunis for short, the life science specialist SZABO-SCANDIC and the Next Generation Immunologists NGI, as the young scientists' organization of the Austrian Society for Allergology and Immunology is called, want to support young scientists. The research sponsorship of total 8,000 euros will be paid out in cash and material prize. Registration is possible from now until 30 June 2021.

PhD students wanted

All doctoral candidates from the life sciences studies, i.e. human medicine, veterinary medicine, biology, bioinformatics, biotechnology, biochemistry and related subjects with a research topic in the field of immunology, allergology or vaccinology, are eligible to apply. The dissertation must be supervised at an Austrian university but must not be completed. This is because the Immunis is intended to support young researchers.

Sponsorship worth a total of 8,000 euros

The two best projects are nominated by an independent expert jury of the NGI. The prize winner will receive research sponsorship worth a total of 7,000 euros. 5,000 euros will be paid out in material prizes, such as cell culture and consumable materials, research products, antibodies and diagnostic kits, and 2,000 euros in cash. The recognition prize will receive a cash prize of 1,000 euros.

Application modalities

Applications can be submitted at www.sz-sc.com/immunis. Deadline for submission is 30 June 2021.

"Austrian researchers and research institutions have a very good international reputation. Nevertheless, the start for young scientists is often hard and many talents are lost after the Master's thesis. We would like to inspire young scientists for research in the field of immunology and allergology and to support them in their dissertations with this sponsorship." Mag. Günter Schleinzer, Sales Manager Szabo-Scandic

"As NGI, we want to convey our enthusiasm for immunology to other young scientists. We organize lectures and networking events in order to connect our members in the international research world. We are pleased to have found partners in the industry who would like to support young researchers financially with this sponsorship," Katja Knapp, Jury Chair of the NGI and researcher at the CeMM Research Center for Molecular Medicine of the Austrian Academy of Sciences.

About Szabo-Scandic

Szabo-Scandic Handels GmbH & Co KG in Vienna is one of the leading Austrian trade and service partners for medical and laboratory products. Szabo-Scandic was founded in 1963 and focused on fine chemicals. Today the company distributes and maintains consumables, research products, laboratory instruments and specific diagnostic products. Currently, Szabo-Scandic can offer a range of more than 1.6 million products and numerous services. Their strength lies in more than 55 years of experience in the Austrian Life Science Marketplace. Szabo-Scandic works with innovative manufacturers from the EU, China and the USA and in long-term business relationships with selected partners. Szabo-Scandic stands for quality, service and adherence to deadlines. They are particularly proud to be able to find and procure products that are difficult or not at all available in Europe. The executive of Szabo-Scandic is Johannes Bauer. www.szabo-scandic.com

About NGI

The Next Generation Immunologists are the junior association of the Austrian Society for Immunology and Allergology, ÖGAI. The objectives of the NGI are to support careers and stand in for the interests of young scientists in the field of allergology and immunology. The NGI supports the national and international networking of young scientists in basic as well as applied research.

Photocredit

Die Verwendung für redaktionelle Zwecke ist kostenlos. Bitte beachten Sie das Copyright Szabo-Scandic bzw. CeMM.

Rückfragehinweis

Szabo-Scandic Handels GmbH & Co KG
Mag. Günter Schleinzer
E-Mail: g.schleinzer@szabo-scandic.com
www.szabo-scandic.com

PR-Agentur Meinungsbild PR & Coaching
Mag. Katharina Scheyerer-Janda
Mobil: 0699 / 118 823 16
E-Mail: office@meinungsbild.at